

Newton at Home's Board of Directors is delighted to announce the appointment of Allison Godsey as our new Executive Director, starting on February 1.

Allison joins NAH from Beacon Hill Village where she served as Program Manager. In that role, she worked closely with member-led committees, nurturing programs, overhauling and producing BHV's newsletter, and forging strong partnerships with organizations and leaders in the community. She spearheaded the organization's transition to digital programming and helped to vastly increase member participation.

A native of Northern Virginia, Allison spent ten years in business before earning a Master's degree from the Boston College School of Social Work where she focused on services management for older adults.

In the years that Allison has worked closely with Village members and other older adults, she has come firmly to believe that we are all experts in our own aging – a challenge best met by harnessing the strengths of a community based in respect, curiosity, friendship, and humor.

“I am honored to join Newton at Home as Executive Director to help guide the organization through a period of growth,” Allison has told us. “I'm a true believer in the Village movement.”

As incoming Executive Director of Newton at Home, she's eager to get to know members and work with the Board to make Newton at Home an even more vital resource for our growing membership.

Allison lives with her family in Watertown, where they enjoy outdoor trails, biking, and visiting museums.

The Board wishes to thank our Executive Director Search Committee of Kathy Dolan, Sallie Craig Huber, Julie Plaut Mahoney, and Jennifer Sax for their leadership in conducting this successful search process.
